PREFACE

The Arkansas Gazette has long been considered the prime source for information on the social, cultural, and political affairs of the people of the state of Arkansas. I have prepared this index with the hope that it will be valuable for students, historians, and other researchers who wish to follow the progress of Arkansas and her people as chronicled by the Arkansas Gazette.

Members of the Library faculty and staff of Tomlinson Library have been most helpful to me in the indexing project throughout the year. Mr. William A. Vaughn, Librarian, has generously provided all needed materials and has always been encouraging. Mrs. Virginia Grant has been responsible for typing the daily entries and for the finished manuscript. All of the staff have my thanks for spotting errors in the card file and bringing them to my attention; they are responsible for none of the errors which may be in the finished index.
HOW TO USE THE ARKANSAS GAZETTE INDEX

The Arkansas Gazette Index consists of brief summarizing statements of the news of Arkansas as it was published in the final edition of the Arkansas Gazette. Only those articles dealing with Arkansas people, places and events are considered for inclusion. Material not considered useful for future reference is omitted. Routine articles reporting on sports, social events and business activities are omitted.

HEADINGS: Subject headings (entries) are the main type of entry and are used whenever possible. Names of prominent persons and of organizations are used as entries, but most names are cross-referenced to subjects.

Arrangement of Entries: All main subject headings (entries) are arranged alphabetically, word-by-word. (Old Washington comes before Oldham in this arrangement). Inverted headings are arranged alphabetically without regard to their inversion. Punctuation is disregarded in arranging entries. Abbreviated entries are alphabetized as if they were words, and are not filed at the beginning of the letter. (PCBs is filed after Payne and before Pea Ridge). Names of organizations are inverted so entry is under key word in name if it is indicative of the subject of the organization. (Arkansas Medical Society is entered Medical Society, Arkansas). Names of firms and institutions are not inverted.

SUBDIVISIONS: Entries are subdivided when to do so would simplify their location or when the number of entries under a heading would be unusually long. Main subheadings are arranged in alphabetical order and are underlined. Secondary subheadings may be used when entries under the main subheading are unduly long, or when closely related materials can be grouped. Secondary subheadings are indicated by use of dashes (--) before the entry. Material too general for subdivision is placed before the subdivisions.

ENTRIES: Most articles are assigned only one subject heading, with cross references used to lead from related subjects included. (A statement by the governor on the subject of education would be entered under Education, and a cross-reference made from the name of the governor. Summaries or descriptive phrases are kept as short as possible, and are not intended to indicate that the only material in the article is that described in the summary. Length of the summary should not be taken as an indication of the length of the article. All entries under headings and subheadings appear in chronological order except for those where alphabetical arrangement would aid in location.

LOCATION SYMBOLS: Each summary is followed by the date, section, page and column number where the article appeared in the final edition of the Arkansas Gazette. (S20,2C:3 indicates that the article was published on September 20, page 2, of section C. in column 3).

CROSS-REFERENCES: All cross-references are arranged in alphabetical order. Cross-references from the main subject entry follow the general summaries (if there are no general summaries, cross-references are listed directly under the main entry). Cross references may be listed under subheadings and always follow the summaries. Cross references may be made to an entry without using the full subject entry. (For example: a reference may be made from Teachers, Public School to Education without spelling out Education and Schools. Likewise, the cross-reference may lead to a subheading without specifying if the subhead would be obvious. Under Education and Schools is found the subhead, Teachers). When it is impractical to list names of persons or organizations in the summaries, cross-references may be made from the name to the subject entry. In such references, the date of the article is included as part of the cross-reference. When references are made to subjects found in the general summaries preceding subheadings, the word (gen) may be used to indicate that the article is not under a subhead, e.g. (Children see also Medicine (gen).

A cross reference from a person's name to a subject does not indicate if the named person is directly involved or is merely commenting on the topic. In all cases, the article should be read for clarification of this point.
