CLASSES
Progressiveness tempered with sound practicality and urged on by a desire to know has brought us back for another year's work at Arkansas Tech, although only a two-year course was outlined in the catalogue.

Laboring to keep one pace ahead of the sophomores, we have entered all phases of college life. In leaving, we are well satisfied with our accomplishments. We can boast of having the editor of the Agricola, the captain of the football team of the past season, and several of the first string men on the Wonder Boys eleven were special students.

This class contains the oldest students at Arkansas Tech. We have striven to hold high the standards set before us by the former graduates, and we have succeeded only to a limited degree. On account of the progressive strides being made by our college, the future graduates will not only have the former responsibilities of the institution to carry, but also the new ones being added yearly.

We are sure that any other college with which any of these students continue their work will find them worthy, capable and ready in every way to do their part.
STEVE REASONER . . . . . . . . Russellville
Arkco-Agrian Society, '25, '26, '28; Debating Club, '26, '28; Agri Club, '26, '28
A poet laureate is Steve. His aggressive, individualistic work makes him a valuable man to A. P. C.

FLORENCE DEAN . . . . . . . . Russellville

L. I. Certificate
Science Club '28; Agri Club, '25, '28; Periclean Society, '22, '28; Football, '22-'28
Have you ever seen “Street” frown? Have you ever heard him sing? His vocal outbursts may be surpassed, but his ability as an athlete cannot. Not only is he a good athlete, but he is a good student and a chemistry "shark".
BOYD A. KEATHLEY . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . Danville

Periclean Society, '27 '28; "T" Association, '28; Agricola Staff, '28

"Hap" is a product of Yell county and a real one. He is an orator, a student, a business man, a society man, and one on whom girls look once then leave home. His college career has ever been marked by the highest order of loyalty to his class, his school, and to his duties in the many positions he has held.

MARVIN HURLEY . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . Russellville

State Student Council, '27; English Club, '28; Glee Club, '28

Marvin's editorial ability has secured for him the editorship of both the Agricola and the Tuba Agricolae. A more brilliant fellow cannot be found. He is a natural leader, a diligent worker, and one of the best friends a fellow ever had.

JIM WHITE . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . Star City
Arkco-Agrian Society, '26-'28; "T" Association, '26-'28;

If you want anything done, just call on Jim. He is a real leader on the campus and on the gridiron. His place will be hard to fill.
CHARLES LINZY . . . . . . . . Plainview
Science Club, '28

"Cheesey" appears indifferent, but there is no student who is more loyal to A. P. C. than he. Charles is a real chemistry student, and we can predict nothing but success for him.

ARVLE F. BENNETT . . . . . . Scranton
Arko-Agrian Society, '25, '28; Quartet, '26, '28; Orchestra, '27, '28; Glee Club, '28

A "noisy" person indeed is Arvile, but the sounds either come from his trombone or from his vocal chords. His musical ability is supplimented by his genuine character and ability. He left us at mid-term to teach at Greenwood.

BILLIE BOWERMAN . . . . . . Belleville
Agri Club, '26, '28; Debating Club, '26, '28; Basket Ball, '27, '28

A tall lanky boy is Bill, a live member of the student body. Not only is he an athlete, but his ability in the class room assures us that "Sot" will make a successful man.
The Sophomore Class of '28 is the largest ever graduated by Arkansas Tech. This graduating class is almost twice as large as the graduating Class of '27, and our sincere wish for our Alma Mater is that every class which follows us may be larger than the preceding one.

This class has been well represented in all the leading organizations on the campus. Members of our class have held the highest positions of responsibility in almost every phase of student activity. Not only have members of this class been found doing excellent work in the club room, religious affairs, social functions, and in the classroom, but also on the cinder path, on the basketball court and on the gridiron.

This class, as Freshmen, saw the coming of Dr. Grant and we have already seen a part of his great constructive program for Arkansas Tech realized. We are sure that the graduating classes of the near future will be much larger, graduating from a bigger and better college, all on account of Dr. Grant's great work and the hearty cooperation he has received and will continue to receive from the entire faculty and student body. We hope to do things that will help to make Arkansas Tech more worthy of her growing reputation and to soon see her take her place with the leading colleges of the South.
LOUISE BEASLEY       Hot Springs
                      Arkco-Agrian Society; Y. W. C. A.; Glee Club
Her music is indeed charming. Since her entrance at Tech, she has appeared on many programs, one time over KTHS. Her charming personality makes everyone love her; her ability to do the many things that must be done make everyone seek her. What could be done without such people?

AROUND THE CAMPUS
This year's college freshman class has at least one record to its credit. It is by far the largest freshman college class in the history of Arkansas Polytechnic College. No class has ever had members more ready to heed the time-honored command, “Grab them ankles, Freshmen”. Members of this class caught the greased pig on Dad's Day, and other members caught the pig-skin to help defeat Lombard.

The Class of '29 has made many good records other than those on the grid-iron, the basket ball court and on the track. A number of the members of this class will be found classed in the Who's Who section for outstanding achievements in all of the different college activities. This class probably has more members in the orchestra than any other class. It has supplied good numbers to both glee clubs and to all of the different organizations. Wherever a member of this class if found, a worker is found.

During their short stay at Arkansas Tech, the members of the freshman class have become devoted to her interests and loyal to her traditions. They have been loyal rooters for the Wonder Boys and for all that is for the benefit of the Alma Mater. The class has been tried and found capable to take its place next year as the graduating class. Its members will not all leave, however. Many of them will be found here two or three years from not fighting to get the standards of our Alma Mater lifted still higher.

The freshman class will be of vast importance to the future welfare of Arkansas Tech during the vacation. Its members are drawn from many sections. And whenever a member of this class returns home for the summer, Arkansas Tech will have a booster in that community.

The Class

As Seniors in the Academic Department of Arkansas Polytechnic College, we are not heirs to the privileges usually granted to high school seniors. There are the college students whom we must recognize as our upper classmen. However, these students have been very considerate with us when we have had our feelings of seniority, and we have tried to repay them by showing our willingness to yield to their superiority.

Our class has been a busy one all during the year of 1927-28. Beside our part in the student and college activities, we have been faced all year with the problem of graduation. To pass, or not pass, that has been the question in the mind of each member of our class. Although many who started out with us fell out after the first lap, our class has maintained a good strength. The Senior High School Class of Arkansas Tech will be about on an equal with former graduating classes.

Many of us have spent our four years in high school here, and we will stay on next year and continue our work in the College Department. In that way we hope to be able to fit ourselves for life in this progressive age, and we also hope to be able to do more for our Alma Mater as college students than we have been able to do as high school students. We feel that our institution has entered on an era of growth, and we hope to be instrumental in a small way at least in promoting this growth.

THE CLASS

One of the problems the Junior Class in the Arkansas Tech academic department has been faced with this year has been that of getting located. We do not like to consider ourselves in a class with the freshmen, yet it looks a long way to the top with four classes above us. However, that is one problem faced by every junior high school class in an institution doing both high school and college work.

We may not have been as active in some of the leading college organizations and sports as some of our upper classmen, but we have not been inactive. Our boast is that the junior class has been the busiest on the campus. This may be due in part, it is true, to the fact that we have been subject to the commands of four upper classes. This has been good training though, and we feel that the year has been of great importance to us.

Although we have just started on the way to college graduation, we believe that we have gained ideals that will influence our future lives for the best. We have sipped at the fount of knowledge, and we have liked it. We plan to continue our work in school, and in the future we hope to take a leading part in the progress of Arkansas Polytechnic College.

The Sophomore Class in the academic department of Arkansas Polytechnic College feels that if any one has the right to hold a grudge against the administration it does. Last year the members of this class entered school as members of the freshman class, the first work offered. Indeed they were the freshest of the fresh. This year they came back to school with the assurance that there would be at least one class below them, but when they arrived on the campus they found to their sincere disappointment that the ninth grade had been discontinued. They were again the freshest of the fresh. It seemed to them as if they had spent a whole year without accomplishing anything.

Disappointments are only momentary for this class, though, and they were soon hard at work as all good high school boys and girls should. It was with reluctance that they left their work to play, because most of their play was amusement for the older students on the campus at their expense. Again they overcame this with that optimism that characterizes youth and got as much fun as those who were seeking amusement out of them.

Two years have been sufficient to put into the members of this class the ideals of Arkansas Tech. Their loyalty is unquestionable. They have played their part as well as those upon whose shoulders have fallen greater responsibilities, and when their time comes they will accept these responsibilities.
